

London Stable Lads

WHAT'S IT ABOUT?

This photograph, taken around 1900, shows a group of grooms and a child on horseback, in Hunstworth Mews, Dorset Square. Mews were built behind the homes of well off residents of London in order to provide stabling for their horses and carriages and homes for the grooms.

Source: Westminster City Archives Centre, Ref: T138 Hunstworth Mews (13)