

Brondesbury and Kilburn High School.

RULES.

1. Every girl will be late, morning and afternoon, who is not in the Hall before the door is bolted.
2. Every girl must wear the School hat-band and hair ribbon and the Regulation Drill dress (Summer or Winter blouse).
3. Every girl must change her shoes when she comes to School and when she goes into the Playground. No india-rubber shoes may be worn, except for drill.
4. After the second bell, girls are to be in their seats, and silent.
5. No girl may speak in the break-line, nor when she goes back to her Class-room after break.
6. No girl may be in the Class-rooms out of class-hours.
7. No girl is allowed to go into any Cloak-room but her own, nor to play in the Cloak-rooms at any time, nor to speak in the Cloak-rooms without permission.
8. No conversation nor loitering is allowed in the Lavatories, nor running about in the Dining-room.
9. No girl may stay in School after 1.10 p.m., nor after 4.10 p.m. except with special permission.
10. Girls must not write on the blackboards without leave. Girls who wilfully misuse desks or other School property must pay for necessary repairs.
11. No work may be given in late.
12. No absence and no lesson will be excused unless a good reason, stated in writing, be brought to the Head-Mistress, on the following day.

School Rules at Brondesbury and Kilburn High School For Girls, c. 1892

WHAT'S IT ABOUT?

In 1892, a teacher training college, a kindergarten and Brondesbury and Kilburn High School for Girls were housed under one roof on Salusbury Road, Brondesbury. The high school was intended as a demonstration school for trainee teachers. These rules from the 1890s demonstrate the firm discipline found in Victorian schools.

Source: Brent Archives, Ref:19873/3/2